DETAILED ACTION

This action is issued in response to amendment filed 12/31/07.

Response to Amendment

Claims 1-3, 5-10, 12-41 were amended. Claims 4, 11 were canceled. No Claims were added.

Specification

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 31-35, 36, 39, and 4, are rejected under 112 2nd paragraph the current view of the courts is that there is nothing inherently ambiguous or uncertain about a negative limitation. So long as the boundaries of the patent protection sought are set forth definitely, albeit negatively, the claim complies with the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. Some older cases were critical of negative limitations because they tended to define the invention in terms of what it was not, rather than pointing out the invention. Thus, the court observed that the limitation “R is an alkenyl radical other than 2-butenyl and 2,4-pentadienyl” was a negative limitation that rendered the claim indefinite because it was an attempt to claim the invention by excluding what the inventors did not invent rather than distinctly and particularly pointing out what they did invent. In re Schechter, 205 F.2d 185, 98 USPQ 144 (CCPA 1953). A claim which recited the limitation "said homopolymer being free from the proteins, soaps, resins, and sugars present in natural Hevea rubber" in order to exclude the characteristics of the prior art product, was considered definite because each recited limitation was definite. In re Wakefield, 422 F.2d 897, 899, 904, 164 USPQ 636, 638, 641 (CCPA 1970). In addition, the court found that the negative limitation "incapable of forming a dye with said oxidized developing agent" was definite because the boundaries of the patent protection sought were clear. In re Barr, 444 F.2d 588, 170 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1971). Any negative limitation or exclusionary proviso must have basis in the original disclosure. If alternative elements are positively recited in the specification, they may be explicitly excluded in the claims. See In re Johnson, 558 F.2d 1008, 1019, 194 USPQ 187, 196 (CCPA 1977) ("[the] specification, having described the whole, necessarily described the part remaining."). See also Ex parte Grasselli, 231 USPQ 393 (Bd. App. 1983), aff'd mem., 738 F.2d 453 (Fed. Cir. 1984). The mere absence of a positive recitation is not basis for an exclusion. Any claim containing a negative limitation which does not have basis in the original disclosure should be rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. Note that a lack of literal basis in the specification for a negative limitation may not be sufficient to establish a prima facie case for lack of descriptive support. Ex parte Parks, 30 USPQ2d 1234, 1236 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1993). See MPEP § 2163 - § 2163.07(b) for a discussion of the written description requirement of 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Claims 32, 35-36, 38 and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

Claims 32, 35-36, 38 and 40: For each of these claims, the "abstraction layer", as well as "the abstraction layer provides wrapping" is new matter since it is not taught in the original disclosure. While the original disclosure does refer to an "abstraction", and abstraction is not the same as an "abstraction layer". An "abstraction" is typically a set of information whereas an "abstraction layer" is a set of functions. Additionally, there is no specific teaching for an abstraction layer providing "wrapping". Accordingly, these features are new matter. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

Claims 33-35, 37, 39 and 41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is inoperable and therefore non-statutory.

Claims 33-35, 37, 39, 41, Each of these claims calls for a search execution business service which is independent of a database and has access to a plurality of database. Since "the database" can be one of the plurality of databases, the claims allow for the service to be both independent of and accessible to "the database". Since it is logically impossible to be independent of a database and at the same time have an accessible connection to the very same database, the claims set up a contradictory condition which is not physically possible. Accordingly, the issue of inoperability is raised for these specific claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claims 19, 41, and 45-51 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kessenich US Patent No. 6,292,802 filed May 9, 2000 issued Sep. 18, 2001 in view of Nishizawa field Sep. 19, 2000 issued Feb. 17, 2004 and further in view of Whitman (U.S. Patent 6,772,150).

The reasons for this rejection were set forth in the office action of April 7, 2006 and are hereby incorporated by reference.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 12/31/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's primary argument is that the secondary reference to Nishizawa does not disclose a virtual business component and that a search execution business service is allegedly not invoked by the virtual business component. Both arguments are incorrect. The virtual table (119) reads clearly as the virtual business component since a virtual table is literally a virtual business component. Additionally, the reference of Nishizawa clearly indicates that application manager (106) issues a query against the virtual table (119) (col. 5, lines 33-35) by reason that the query references columns on the virtual table. The "search execution business service" is merely the service of executing a query which has invoked the columns of the virtual table. Applicant's arguments also contain assumptions that either query optimizer or virtual table manager are the "search execution business service". While these components may facilitate the search execution, the "search execution business service" is merely the service of executing a query which has invoked the columns of the virtual table. The examiner has not stated that this service is only one or two physical components, but is the instead is the actual service of performing query execution.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
